GARRISON HISTORY

Camp Carroll is a small camp in central Korea situated one hour north of Daegu in Waegwan, South Korea. Camp Carroll is named in honor of Sergeant First Class Charles F. Carroll of the 72nd Engineer Company, 5th Infantry Regiment, who died in action during the Korean War. Sergeant First Class Carroll was posthumously awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for Heroism.

On 1 July 1950, a small force of American Soldiers known as Task Force Smith, landed at Pusan on the southern coast of the Republic of Korea. There, they began a dramatic march north to meet an invading Army in a land that at that time could not be more remote in the minds of the American people. In the years that have followed, United States Forces Korea (USFK) soldiers have stood in combat and vigilance with the forces of the Republic of Korea to protect the homes, lives and freedom of the Korean people.

Construction of Camp Carroll began in 1959. It consists of 546 acres in the Naktong River Valley, approximately one quarter mile east of Naktong River. The terrain is hilly with surrounding mountains. Weather is similar to that of the Midwestern United States, hot and humid in the summer, cold and windy in the winter.
